

A Safety Tip: ID Your Kids

Do not leave home without making sure your kids have Identification and Medical Information with them when you are traveling to crowded airports and busy themeparks. You cannot count on your kids to remember your number if they are lost while on a family vacation!! One thing I love about ID on Me is that if your kids are too young to wear a bracelet, you can take off the compartment and attach it to a shoelace!

My kids (see picture of my 6-year-old Brandon) love to wear the ID ON ME bracelets. They come in nine colors and have WATERPROOF compartments that hold mom and dad's cell phone numbers and any other information that someone would need if you child is lost on a family vacation.

Parents who travel have so much to think about. ID on Me takes one of the worries out of family travel. None of us ever want to think that such our kids may wander or go missing. But, trust me, it happens daily. It has happened to me. And, it is the worst feeling in the world to lose your child. My son told me that he knew his address and phone number, but couldn't remember it. He was upset and scared.

IDONME identification bracelets are now a staple in our family when we travel. My boys tested them at the Nick Hotel. They went on all the waterslides and even got "slimed" wearing their IDONME bracelets. They are definitely waterproof!
