

Travel Gadgets to Simplify Life on the Road

Since I have a job where travel and research go hand-in-hand, I have been trying to spot families in airports and closely observe the parents in action. I noticed a woman at LaGuardia airport in New York carrying her carseat on her back, while she pushed the kids in a double-stroller. The husband had another car seat on his back. Were they superheroes?

I really began to wonder if they had superhuman powers. I cannot even think about myself carrying a carseat on my back. My husband and I used to plop it on top of the stroller or rent a cart. But, the woman was SMILING. She didn't look burdened at all. I approached her and inquired about this perceived miraculous happening.

Here's the scoop: She purchased the strap-like carrier online. You purchase the straps to use with your own carseat. She and the husband both said that it was a cinch. After speaking to the parents using this device, I thought I'd offer other family travelers a quick link to purchase some essentials to make travel life easier.

You may not look like a supermodel, but you will definitely look like a supermom or superdad on your family vacation!
